Quester Expands Marketplace

DUBLIN (23 July)—Quester Ltd., the company that operates the groundbreaking Quester Web site for job seekers and employers, has announced that it will now include technology-related occupations in its marketplace.

Since its launch more than five years ago, Quester has focused solely on staffing for organisations in the health-care sector. Like health care, the technology sector is also struggling to find employees who have the right skills and who can help meet the demands created by high growth.

“The employment rate of technology professionals is already quite high, yet jobs in the industry are projected to grow significantly each year over the next decade,” said Ladli Misra, a founding partner of Quester.

Quester works by bringing job seekers together with recruiters and hiring managers. When companies contract with Quester, job listings are created with details of the companies’ open positions. Job seekers create a skill-set profile and identify opportunities of interest to them. Candidates and employers interact, seeking links and bridges between skills and jobs listed on the Quester site.

Quester’s proprietary algorithm matches employers and job seekers and then notifies both. Using a simple messaging-and-scheduling tool, job seekers can indicate their interest in a job opening and employers can send interview requests. Employers are assigned a personal guide to walk them through the process and to ensure the maximum benefit from the experience. There is no cost to job seekers.

“It’s great for both ends of the employment market,” said Ms. Misra. “Job seekers can easily find the most appropriate opportunities and employers get the information they need to efficiently acquire in-demand talent, usually in less than a month.”

172. Where would the article most likely appear?
- (A) In a medical journal
  - (B) In a business magazine
  - (C) In a technology firm's newsletter
  - (D) On a hospital's Web site
173. The word "meet" in paragraph 2, line 7, is closest in meaning to
- (A) fulfill
  - (B) join
  - (C) find
  - (D) contact
174. What is indicated about Ms. Misra?
- (A) She worked as a medical professional in the past.
  - (B) She helped to create Quester.
  - (C) She is in charge of hiring at Quester.
  - (D) She expects the health-care sector's profits to grow.
175. What is suggested about Quester's system?
- (A) Its technology needs to be upgraded.
  - (B) It guarantees job seekers a match within 30 days.
  - (C) It offers positions in many different industries.
  - (D) Its costs are covered by employers.

LONDON (20 May)—Narvalis, a marine-transport company based in Le Havre, France, announced last week that it has once again added to its cargo fleet. A Danish vessel, dubbed the Epsilon, was purchased from a Copenhagen-based company to be Narvalis' largest ship. It will be docked in a separate location for cleaning and inspection before officially entering service out of Le Havre.

Narvalis maintains a fleet of twenty medium-and large-sized vessels, transporting primarily grains and iron ore between international destinations. "Our board unanimously decided to invest in this secondhand vessel to expand our operations," said company president Emmanuel Brodeur. "We believe that the substantial scale of this vessel will allow us to deliver certain shipments more efficiently."

Subject:	Your transport needs

Dear Mr. Sharma,

Thank you for contacting me. I think that the Epsilon would be the best option for your company's needs. Given its size, it would take longer to arrive in Mumbai than our other vessels. However, it provides unparalleled cargo space, which will allow for your goods to be transported as a single shipment. This will greatly simplify logistics on the receiving end.

Following its purchase in Copenhagen, the Epsilon was routed to Amsterdam in the Netherlands for several days. The plan is that it will next head to our headquarters in Le Havre. However, we can easily send it directly on to Bilbao, Spain, for loading. Please let me know how you would like to proceed.

Sincerely,

Zacharie Bernard
Client Services, Narvalis

176. What is the Epsilon ?

- (A) A container ship

Questions 181-185 refer to the following memo and form.

To: Fanoula Graphics employees
From: Accounting Department
Re: Expense reimbursement form
Date: December 15

Beginning on January 2, Fanoula Graphics will implement a new process for reimbursement of business-travel expenses. The new procedure will be easier to follow, and employees can expect to receive reimbursements much more quickly than they do under the current system.

Employees will no longer book their own flights and hotels. All travel arrangements will instead be made by Allison Weber and her team in Operations. Employees should submit an electronic request form to Ms. Weber's team at least two weeks before the first day of travel. If travel plans are known far in advance, it is preferable to submit requests well before the submission deadline. Request forms can be found on the employee portal of the company's Web site.

After travel, employees should submit an electronic reimbursement form for all other reimbursable expenses, including meals, tips, car rental or taxi service, gasoline, laundry services at hotels, and other expenses that are outlined in the employee portal on the Web site. Please note that photocopying is no longer considered a reimbursable expense. We ask that employees prepare copies using our own office equipment before traveling.

Thank you for your compliance. Please refer any questions to Ms. Weber.

Subject:	Inquiry

Hello,

My company has recently decided to outsource the lawn care at both our work sites, and I have been asked to solicit bids for a contract to do the work. I saw your Greenfell Landscaping flyer and wanted to reach out to you, as we would prefer to work with a locally owned company rather than a large franchise.

We have two properties with large lawns. Our main offices are on Langley Boulevard, near the Crossroads Shopping Plaza, and our shipping warehouse is five kilometers from the main offices, on Kempton Road. Our needs are fairly simple. We only require that the grass be kept short for a low but fair cost. We do not have any flower gardens or hedges, so the mowing is very straightforward.

If you are interested in submitting a bid, please let me know.

Daphne Mizuno, Facilities Manager
Pamturn Products, LLC

Dear Ms. Mizuno,

Thank you for contacting Greenfell Landscaping about this opportunity. We would like to bid on this work. Please forward the specifications, and I will begin working up the bid.

If you need references as part of your process, you can contact Mr. Fred Stolz, the owner of Dynamo Machine Shop, which is located just down the street from your warehouse. Fred has been a Greenfell Landscaping customer for over eight years. His details are attached.

Greenfell Landscaping is fully licensed and insured. You can count on us to provide excellent, reliable service.

Sincerely,

Brian Karpyak, Owner
Greenfell Landscaping
